Draft Passage Conceded As Vote Nears

SENATE ACTION DUE TODAY ON CONSCRIPTION

Bill To Deter Call Till Jan. 1
Only Barrier; Limiting Proposals Lose.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Opinion on the conscription bill today was for a final vote on the measure, but the chamber's action on a proposal to delay the bill until January 1, while attempts to supply the expanded draft by voluntary enlistment were being made, was defeated in the senate.

Effective at Once
The House Wadsworth measure, which would take effect at once, was passed by a vote of 21 and 14 to 10 to register immediately the first contingent of 400,000 men to be sent to service soon after the war in Europe.

OHIOANS FAVOR DELAY
By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, Aug. 28.—Ohioans today voted to delay the conscription bill until January 1, 1941, by a vote of 10 to 4.

Exempt Officials
Approval was given a provision exempting state and federal officials from the draft.

DEMAND EXPULSION

Demands for the expulsion of Senator George Paish (above) British economist and writer from the United States were voiced by two senators because of statements which Senator Burton K. Wheeler said the Englishman had made about getting this country's assistance for Great Britain.

RECENT RAINS AID FARMERS

Expected To Be of Substantial
Benefit to Late Crops.

While showers of the last two days have perhaps inconvenienced picknickers and others anxious to get outdoors, Marion county farmers today were looking over their water-soaked fields with satisfaction.

While the prolonged dry weather which resulted in heavy loss to early summer crops also has damaged late crops extensively, observers have been predicting that an abundance of rain before the end of August would help the late crops considerably. And they believe that the recent showers, particularly the 1.33 inches of rainfall reported for the 24 hour period ending at 8 a. m. today, will at least partially fill the bill.

Additional rain is in prospect according to official government weather observers whose forecast for tonight and tomorrow is for partly cloudy skies with local showers and thunderstorms. There will not be much change in temperature according to the forecast.

Nazi "Fire Bombs" Rained on England

Drive Off Waves of Bombers After Terrific Battle Over Wide Front.

By The Associated Press
High-flying German bombers thundering across the channel in V-shaped waves subjected the British Isles to a new type of deal by fire throughout the night and early today—dumping great quantities of incendiary bombs and drums of time-fused gasoline.

London dispatches said the widespread use of aerial flame weapons indicated a new Nazi tactic of terror and destruction. Two big waves of swastika-marked bombers swarmed over the coast of Kent in the Dover region, and headed toward London.

Drop 100 Fire Bombs
At a single point in the great industrial midlands 100 fire bombs dropped in open country. Elsewhere, gasoline drums with mechanisms attached to ignite them were reported falling in large numbers.

German bombers in increasing numbers escorted by Messerschmitt fighters crossed the south-east English coast throughout the morning while others fanned out over southwest England and Wales.

At least ten Britons were killed during the night including a 12-year-old boy and a 10-year-old girl who had been evacuated from London to live in a safer place in southeast England. They were killed when a bomb exploded in the garden of their war refuge home.

U. S. REFUGEES END PERILOUS ATLANTIC DASH

"American Legion" with Over 800 Aboard, Arrives in New York.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—After a perilous voyage during part of which death seemed to lurk in every wave, the army transport American Legion arrived in New York harbor today with more than 800 American refugees.

The voyage which began at Petsamo Finland Aug. 16 carried the vessel through nine areas north of Scotland at a time when Germany was proclaiming unrestricted warfare in British waters.

The Norwegian Crown Prince's daughter and her children fleeing from Scandinavia were taken off the American Legion down the bay by a coast guard cutter. They landed at the Battery where arrangements had been made to take them immediately to the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

Diplomats Aboard
Mrs. Florence Jaffar Harri-man, U. S. minister to Norway, and a number of other diplomats remained aboard until the vessel docked in Brooklyn.

The royal party was met by Wilhelm Munthe, Norwegian minister to the United States, and George T. Summerlin, chief of protocol of the state department.

The American Legion was picked up 500 miles at sea by two United States destroyers forming an honorary escort.

Virtually all the 897 passengers were Americans fleeing countries under German and Russian domination.

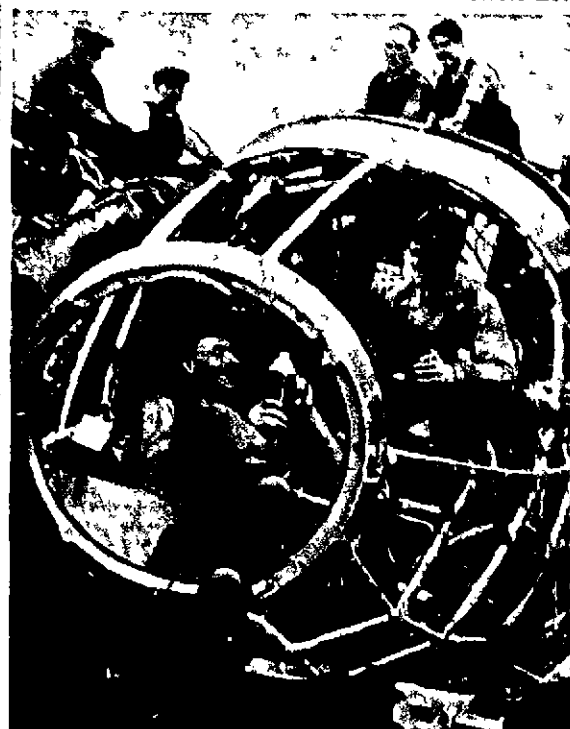

General hardship due to overcrowding Tolchuck said was aggravated by much sickness. Thirty persons were sent to the ship's hospital and two women who had come aboard ill died from heart disease, he added.

The serene confidence of Capt. B. E. Torming evoked universal admiration. Tolchuck said. When passing through danger zones during the critical nights the ship flew illuminated American flags and was brightly lit.

By The Associated Press
SALEM, Ore., Aug. 28.—Renewal of an attack on the new farm record and reciprocal trade treaties was high in Sen. Charles McNary's mind today as the Republican vice presidential nominee mapped plans for an early campaign tour.

The running mate of Wendell L. Willkie opened his attack yesterday in a speech formally accepting the nomination at the state fairgrounds and followed it up by announcing his first campaign address to be made after Sept. 20 somewhere in the midwest.

Willkie Demands Roosevelt Name Air Assistants

By The Associated Press
RUSHVILLE, Ind., Aug. 28.—Wendell L. Willkie opened his presidential campaign headquarters on Main street today with the demand that President Roosevelt appoint immediately assistant secretaries for aviation in the war and navy departments.

The Republican nominee drove here last night from Indianapolis stopping at an outlying restaurant in that city to listen by radio to the acceptance speech of his running mate, Senator Charles McNary of Oregon.

Renews Criticism
Following up previous criticism of the administration's defense program, Willkie issued a statement saying:

In connection with my suggestion that there should be created a position in the cabinet for aeronautics, I want to make another suggestion immediately. The President should appoint at once an assistant secretary of air in both the war and navy departments.

These positions have been vacant ever since the President came into office in 1933. The failure to fill them is in part the cause of the present lamentable situation with reference to our aeronautical development.

At the time he (Roosevelt) declared he was not making these appointments in the interest of economy I doubt if in view of the subsequent expenditure of sixty billion dollars by his administration that that is a valid excuse for continuing the vacancies which would cost $24,000 a year to fill.

FLYING REPLY

(In New York, Chairman Edward J. Flynn of the Democratic national committee said Willkie's suggestion that a secretary of aeronautics be created was "a very good idea" and that he would support it.

It was clearly the Republican's intention to make a flying reply to Willkie's criticism of the administration's defense program.

MEETS CIANO IN EFFORT TO HALT OUTBREAK

Hungarian - Rumanian War
Seen As Blow to Germany;
Soviet Battle Probed.

By The Associated Press
High in his Obersalzberg mountain chalet, Adolf Hitler enacted the role of behind-the-scenes peacemaker in the Balkan crisis today.

The Nazi Fuehrer received Italy's Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and presumably dictated his desires for maintenance of the status quo in southeast Europe newly threatened with war between Rumania and Hungary.

Ciano then left by plane for Vienna accompanied by Germany's Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop for a 4-power parley tomorrow with Italian representatives aimed at settling Hungary's claim on the rich Rumanian province of Transylvania.

Hitler has previously expressed a stern wish to keep the flames of the main European conflict from spreading to the so-called Balkan powderkeg "for two reasons."

1 To insure the uninterrupted flow of vital oil and food supplies from Rumania and Hungary to Germany for the battle against Britain.

2 To permit Germany to concentrate on Britain alone without having to divert troops by taking sides in a back-door conflict in southeast Europe.

Meanwhile a mixed Rumanian-commission investigated a border clash in which hundreds of Rumanian and Red army soldiers were reported slain.

The Rumanian government confirmed reports—previously denied—that a Soviet plane was shot down on a reconnaissance flight over Rumania yesterday but the government said that a Rumanian pursuit plane fired on a Rumanian plane at the same time.

In another aerial clash six Rumanian fighters reportedly shot down two Russian planes.

Dispatches from Bucharest said Rumania planned to meet Hungary's demand for return of war-torn Transylvania which formed a part of the old Austro-Hungarian empire by offering to cede 10,425 square miles of the province to Hungary—provided Hungary agrees to a complete exchange of populations.

Diplomats Active
At the same time the German and Italian ministers to Budapest and Bucharest departed for home carrying detailed reports of a Hungarian-Rumanian frontier incident and a bloody border clash between Rumanian and Soviet Russian troops.

It was the second time the Axis powers had exerted pressure for settlement of the Hungarian-Rumanian dispute.

Negotiations instituted at the insistence of Berlin collapsed yesterday when Rumania refused Hungary's demands for return of three quarters of Transylvania, which Rumania gained from the World War break-up of Austria-Hungary. Both countries have been massing troops along the frontiers.

Yesterday the Budapest government accused a Rumanian pilot of shooting down a Hungarian bomber 18 miles inside Hungarian territory and protested against what it called a murderous, unprovoked attack.

Propaganda Charged
Bucharest said a reply would be handled "through the regular diplomatic channels." A Rumanian government spokesman asserted the Hungarian plane probably was a craft which he charged had been dropping incendiary propaganda leaflets over Transylvania.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING M. D.

Few Eye Faults Hereditary.

AT BIRTH the baby can probably distinguish between bright light and complete darkness little else. The function of the eye develops rather slowly. The macula is not formed until about three months of age. The macula is the point of clearest vision of the retina. Until its function is developed the movements of the eyes will be more or less purposeless. Ocular movements depend upon fixation of vision and until the macula is developed the eyes of an infant cannot be directed at an object.

Cross-Eyes in Infancy

During the first three months of life therefore it is not uncommon to find children's eyes divergent or cross-eyed not because of any organic defect of the eyes but because of immaturity.

It is doubtful whether at this time further development of the eyes can be influenced save by actual tissue injury. In later months however up to three or four years the function of the eye becomes more highly specialized. It would seem prudent during this period to permit seeing to develop in a natural manner rather than to encourage close application of the eyes through the use of small toys, perusal of pictures and other means of close application.

There are a few disorders and diseases of the eyes that are considered to be hereditary that is they appear in several members of the same family not only siblings, but in succeeding generations. However, all hereditary diseases are not congenital—do not appear at birth.

Vitamin Deficiency

During adolescence the development of systemic diseases may affect the eyes and is a frequent cause of eye disorders. Tuberculosis, rheumatism, endocrine disease are likely to make their first appearance at this time and their effects can often be seen in the eye. Focal infection is also a cause of ocular disorder at this period.

Among college students the ocular hygienist must consider the role of vitamin deficiency. The college student is not supposed to be rich and to be able to afford a luxurious diet. Nor does he have the inestimable aid of home cooking. All the conditions of his life make for a tendency toward vitamin deficiency.

Questions and Answers

M. O. — What causes poor blood circulation? What can I do for it and is it curable?

Answer — Poor blood circulation is a rather indefinite term. It may mean lack of strength on the part of the heart. It may mean anemia and it may mean a subjective sense of chilliness or numbness of the fingers which might be due to disturbance of thyroid secretion. In any case it is subject to treatment after the proper diagnosis has been made.

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Constance persuaded reluctant Judge Franck to reveal the Taylors' plans. They want to make the ranch into a dairy farm.

CHAPTER ELEVEN Friendly Enemy

CONSTANCE thought quickly a dairy ranch, that was something she could run. And Michael had changed, ergo, she would adjust herself.

"Judge," she smiled at the old man mistily. "tell me about dairying and why you think it the thing."

"Surely," agreed the old man, thinking only what an adorable child she was with her blue-black hair and supple blue eyes.

"With the railroad running through the ranch, you have means of getting your products to market without double handling. Your acres are extensive enough for dairy herd grazing because much of the food is prepared much which is supposed to stimulate your herds to produce the maximum quantity of milk."

"Your markets are more stable. The populace consumes a comparatively definite amount of milk products, butter, cream and cheese. You don't go into a competitive market, but sell to a central depot, from where the bulk is distributed."

Constance nodded. It sounded very simple. You merely exchanged your beef cattle for cows, sold their milk in gallon cans, instead of on the hoof, and the cows were still on the ranch, instead of having to be replaced.

"I wonder," she mused, "how much the Taylors were counting on investing in the turn over."

"Twenty thousand," answered the judge, promptly, then looked at his watch. "Hm, this talking of beef has certainly given me an appetite. Let's get us a steak."

"Twilight was blurring the square when they left the office building. The narrow street where Dolores' friends lived, and where Dolores was happily engaged in gossiping, was dull gray.

But when they came out on the waterfront, Constance saw that the sun had left splashes of yellow on the incoming fog, and below it the olive-green water of the bay heaved restlessly.

The cafe was low-ceilinged, filled with roughly clad men, a few women and a thick curtain of smoke.

Judge Franck introduced Constance to everyone they encountered as "Michael Mahoney's offspring."

Cattlemen, dairy men, seamen, loggers and railroad men bowed to Constance, and then the Judge came to a table where sat a large woman who looked as though she had stepped out of an English hunting print.

"Here's someone who can tell you all about dairying," the Judge said.

They joined this Mrs. MacKelvey, and as they dined on succulent steak, crisp French fries and fragrant coffee, Constance listened, looked and marveled.

The woman was the personification of vitality. Her features were strongly cast but totally at variance with the slender, well-groomed hands. "I know," she laughed as she saw Constance looking at her hands "I was a musician, then when Mac died I had to take over. Beef cattle were out in this section, so I took to dairying."

In the end she invited Constance to visit her for a day or so. "Though I warn you," she said, "if there's a drop of the old Mick's blood in your veins, you'll never be the same after that visit."

And then through the haze of smoke, Constance saw a man come into the cafe and wondered at the way life quickened its beat; at the sudden aura of romance which spread over the dusky room.

NEW MOTION PICTURE SHOWN TO ROTARIANS

Entertainment at Palace Follows Weekly Luncheon.

A new development in motion picture production was shown to members of the Marion Rotary club and their guests at the Palace theater yesterday following the club's weekly luncheon at Hotel Harding. As guests of George E. Blanks, Rotary president and manager of the Palace, they viewed a showing of "The Adventures of Constance," a one-hour film depicting native life in the wild interior of Mexico.

Worked up in story form, with the climax depicting the pet bird of Constance, a Mexican boy, battling a rattlesnake to the death and thus saving Constance's life, various animals and birds which have the habitat in Mexico have major roles in the film.

Guests at the club meeting were Rollin Thompson, Cardington Rotarian, Fred Briggs of Atlantic Beach, Fla., former Marion resident whose father, the late O. G. Briggs, was a charter member of the Marion Rotary club, and Dr. Austin Morrison of Marion.

And she thought, with something akin to horror "If I felt this way about John, I wouldn't care about the family. I wouldn't care about being solvent and meeting him on his own ground."

Miles later she wondered why and true and honorable, gave her John, who was everything fine only a feeling of comfort and security and dependability. But those were the qualities one needed in marriage. They were enduring.

"Pedro," she reasoned, "is like too many cocktails and there's always a morning after."

Pedro held her hand as he helped her from the car at the ranch house. "If you don't want me to drive you around, you can ask Juliana for a boy," he advised.

Constance looked away quickly, wondering if her eyes had told him she did want him to drive her, always, but she would be eternally blessed if she'd have him.

"Ellen MacKelvey's place," he continued, "is out of Fuller's Junction."

"How did you know?" she flashed.

"I have ways," he retorted, laughing. "And now that you know our plans for the ranch, what are you going to do?"

"Call on your ways for that answer," she laughed. "What were you really doing in Beachport?"

"Tomorrow you'll know," he promised.

Dolores greeted her the moment she stirred, and Constance, aware of a golden day sensed rather than heard a stir about the ranch.

"Today," advised Dolores, coming to the bed with a tray "we have Fiesta del toro. Already your guests begin to arrive. You should now hurry, senorita, to greet them."

"Of yesterday," she poured an amber stream of coffee onto a turquoise cup. "Senor Pedro have invited them. And he have brought you by Meg's measurements, the clothes that you shall wear."

The tray jiggled as Constance sat straighter. Fiesta meant fest, toro meant bull, together they meant a barbecue.

NEW MOTION PICTURE SHOWN TO ROTARIANS

Entertainment at Palace Follows Weekly Luncheon.

A new development in motion picture production was shown to members of the Marion Rotary club and their guests at the Palace theater yesterday following the club's weekly luncheon at Hotel Harding. As guests of George E. Blanks, Rotary president and manager of the Palace, they viewed a showing of "The Adventures of Constance," a one-hour film depicting native life in the wild interior of Mexico.

Worked up in story form, with the climax depicting the pet bird of Constance, a Mexican boy, battling a rattlesnake to the death and thus saving Constance's life, various animals and birds which have the habitat in Mexico have major roles in the film.

Guests at the club meeting were Rollin Thompson, Cardington Rotarian, Fred Briggs of Atlantic Beach, Fla., former Marion resident whose father, the late O. G. Briggs, was a charter member of the Marion Rotary club, and Dr. Austin Morrison of Marion.

And she thought, with something akin to horror "If I felt this way about John, I wouldn't care about the family. I wouldn't care about being solvent and meeting him on his own ground."

Miles later she wondered why and true and honorable, gave her John, who was everything fine only a feeling of comfort and security and dependability. But those were the qualities one needed in marriage. They were enduring.

"Pedro," she reasoned, "is like too many cocktails and there's always a morning after."

Pedro held her hand as he helped her from the car at the ranch house. "If you don't want me to drive you around, you can ask Juliana for a boy," he advised.

Constance looked away quickly, wondering if her eyes had told him she did want him to drive her, always, but she would be eternally blessed if she'd have him.

"Ellen MacKelvey's place," he continued, "is out of Fuller's Junction."

"How did you know?" she flashed.

"I have ways," he retorted, laughing. "And now that you know our plans for the ranch, what are you going to do?"

"Call on your ways for that answer," she laughed. "What were you really doing in Beachport?"

"Tomorrow you'll know," he promised.

Dolores greeted her the moment she stirred, and Constance, aware of a golden day sensed rather than heard a stir about the ranch.

"Today," advised Dolores, coming to the bed with a tray "we have Fiesta del toro. Already your guests begin to arrive. You should now hurry, senorita, to greet them."

"Of yesterday," she poured an amber stream of coffee onto a turquoise cup. "Senor Pedro have invited them. And he have brought you by Meg's measurements, the clothes that you shall wear."

County Health Office Outlines Plans for Work in Schools

Regarding health in the schools, when more than 100,000 children are in the schools, the health office has outlined plans for work in schools.

Health habits formed (2) assisting children with proper habits in cleanliness, eating, dressing, (3) early response to notices of defects sent by nurses, doctors or teachers, and (4) keeping the children at home in case of illness.

Regular Examinations

Regular physical examinations when schools open combined with immunization for the prevention of certain communicable diseases, are two big steps in the promotion of health in the schools, the staff points out.

Parents, who are notified of defects noted in their children, are reminded that the best course to pursue is to take the child to the family physician. Too often health officials say, children with slightly defective vision or hearing are scolded for things which arise directly from a difficulty which previously has gone unnoticed.

On their weekly visits the nurses report any serious matters to the health department. Dr. Siffritt also makes periodic visits to the schools but does not follow a regular schedule of visitations.

CONVENTION DATE SET

A district convention Oct. 17 at Lancaster was announced last night at a meeting of Harriet Beecher Stowe Tent No. 48 Daughters of Union Veterans, with Mrs. David Schwartz of Franklin street. The welfare chairman reported $15 worth of relief work done in the last month. It was announced that Mrs. D. E. Montgomery, a member of the tent, has been named on the state department budgeting committee.

MEMBERS ENROLLED

Mrs. Edith Bailey and Mrs. Martha Roberts were enrolled in Harriet Beecher Stowe Tent No. 48 Daughters of Union Veterans, at a special meeting last night with Mrs. Leona Bishop of North State street. Mrs. Minnie Van Asbeck, Mrs. Laura DeLong and Mrs. Sarah Carder won first honors in contests.

6 Cars Pile Up As Delaware Co. Man Stops Suddenly

A car driven by Miss Annabell Lettler of 324 South Greenwood street in which her mother Mrs. Carl W. Lettler was a passenger was one of six involved in an unusual accident yesterday about 9 a. m. south of Delaware on Route 23 according to a news report from Delaware.

Three persons were injured, none believed seriously, and all of the automobiles were damaged. The six automobiles were traveling south.

Donald Corbin 23 of near Delaware was driver of the first car in the line told Delaware County Leipsic.

Deputy R. E. Milligan who investigated the accident that he slammed on his brakes when a car in front of him skidded on the wet highway and slid crosswise. The car righted itself and sped on its way, he said but when he stopped suddenly to avoid an accident, the five cars behind him piled up. The rear of the Corbin car and the front of the last car in line, driven by Charles Oberacker of Cleveland were damaged. The other four cars in the line including the Lettler car from Marion which was No. 3 were damaged front and rear.

The injured were Mrs. Ora Arnold of Leipsic Mrs. Oberacker and Mrs. Arthur Manassa of Cleveland an occupant of the Oberacker car. Drivers of the other cars were Wallace Ford of Berkey, O. Orville Lamale of Lindaville and Ora Arnold of Leipsic.

Cab Calloway Here Thursday

The engagement of Cab Calloway and his Cotton Club orchestra for Thursday on the Palace theater stage is drawing considerable interest from surrounding communities. Manager George E. Planck said today.

Last Sunday four Delaware residents made advance purchases of tickets and there have been a number of inquiries from other communities regarding show times and prices. No seats will be reserved.

Calloway and his orchestra will be on the stage for four 50-minute shows. Their appearance will be at 2:45, 5:30, 7:30 and 10 p. m.

The master of hi-de-ho and his troupe of entertainers yesterday closed an engagement at the New York Paramount theater. The show will be brought to Marion intact for the first stop on a nationwide tour. From here it is understood the show will go to Akron traveling by train.

Cab is creator of Minnie the Moocher.

His parents wanted him to be a lawyer and when the family moved to Chicago he began to equip himself for a law course at Crane college. It was necessary for him to support himself however so he joined his sister Blanche in the cast of a colored show. Thoughts of a law career dimmed as his enthusiasm for the entertainment world grew. On the long way up to the top he met and married Miss Wenona Conacher. His son was fixed in the entertainment world when he first sang Minnie the Moocher on the radio from the Cotton Club.

Park Avenue and Broadway floored him the Harlem rendezvous to reel in Cab's antics. He appeared as guest star with Walter Winchell and Rudy Vallee.

Charles McNary on Self-Reliance

THE REPUBLICAN candidate for vice president was hand-picked by Wendell Willkie because of qualities the presidential candidate admired. Sen. McNary revealed what some of the qualities are in his acceptance speech Tuesday night. He might have called it "Self-Reliance," instead of "The Pioneer Spirit and the Future," though that conveys the general idea.

Sen. McNary, it will be noted by hostile critics, probably with chorales of glee, believes that the New Deal has made important social advances; that Mr. Roosevelt was actuated by humanitarian impulses; that Mr. Wallace, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, is earnest and sincere. He also believes the New Deal has shown no capacity to govern and that its political and economic heresies have deflected America from its course.

That is precisely Mr. Willkie's political position. He and Sen. McNary are opposed to statism—the doctrine of the ascendancy of the state over the individual. They deny what has come to be the vital tenet of the New Deal—reliance on government instead of self-reliance. "What we cannot forgive," declares Sen. McNary, "is that the New Deal, finding itself unable to restore national vitality, fashioned its plans upon the thesis that America is finished, that our economy is inevitably contracting; that opportunity has been extinguished and that, hereafter, we must look increasingly to the government for jobs, for security and for the oversight of our private lives. That concept, old as human pessimism, germinates from a Europe which has been transformed—by poverty, political immaturity and war—into a dismal despotism."

Proud of his native Oregon, proud of the pioneers who settled the state, Sen. McNary believes America's future can be greater than its past. But there must be a new spirit of enterprise, a hard-headed liberalism, to tackle the job. Himself a liberal in the U. S. senate since 1918 and often a source of discomfort to Republicans during the gilded era, he has found in Mr. Willkie a leader he can follow.

In this respect, Sen. McNary's case is typical of the position of many of Mr. Willkie's followers. They have been attracted to him because of his convictions about individual rights in the problem raised by the growing power of the state. To them, that is the only party line of any consequence. Like Sen. McNary, who apparently differs with Mr. Willkie on such issues as reciprocal trade treaties, which he thinks are harmful to farmers, and public development of water power, which he believes is not only inadvisable but imperative, they do not find it necessary or consistent with their belief in individualism to stifle the impulse to do their own thinking.

Sen. McNary's speech may have no appreciable impact on the minds of his countrymen; he has not been until recently one of the nation's publicized figures. Nevertheless, like many of the speeches which have been made by Herbert Hoover, it is a document proving that the great issue of our times was reduced to simple and understandable language by a few cogent thinkers.

Not Tomorrow, but Now

PASSAGE of legislation to call up national guardsmen and members of the reserve corps for training and service makes America's defense a matter of hard reality for citizens in every part of the country. Preparedness no longer is a thing the other fellow must begin to do tomorrow, but something they are going to do today. The sacrifices which militarism demands from its victims are going to be made by the guardsmen and reserve officers first.

The overwhelming majority of them, it's safe to say, never foresaw the impact of Hitlerism on a world which thought it had created peace but forgot to destroy war. They didn't expect to find their qualifications, patiently developed in evenings, over week-ends and during vacations, in urgent demand for an emergency in national defense. They stuck to their organizations in lean years when nobody cared what they were doing. Now they are being looked on with interest and admiration they never commanded before.

The obligation they are shouldering carries with it a mandate to the United States to see that military service is made equitable for the long pull while militarism is burning itself out in the world. If there be one argument for universal liability to service more compelling than another, it is the fact that men who voluntarily trained themselves to bear arms now are carrying the hod for those who were willing to let them do it.

News Behind the News

Figures Show U. S. Aviation Strength
 Decreasing Instead of Growing.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Defense commission has been tossing figures galore to the headlines, yipping about umpteen thousands of planes on order or the verge of it, pointing an accusing finger at congress because the orders are not developing faster.

The truth is there are fewer fighting planes on hand in one armed service to defend this nation today than there were when Mr. Roosevelt demanding a least 50,000 as soon as possible. Cold figures come in a trust-worthy way suggesting the developments between the day Mr. Roosevelt spoke, May 16, and the last officially calculated date of plane deliveries, Aug. 6, bore these actual fruits in the bag.

The navy air force shrank 70 planes short of the number of useful ships it had ready to take the air in May. Deliveries were that much slower than the growth of obsolescence among craft on hand. While the army is cagey about calculating the accumulation of obsolescence in the same period, its air fleet is much larger and therefore it has obviously suffered more than the navy.

The granting of certain priority rights to British orders may have accentuated these difficulties, but whatever the reason, the fact remains indisputable that United States air defense is not as strong today as when Mr. Roosevelt spoke.

What's Been Ordered
 If you will cut through the fraud of the official commission figures on planes that have been ordered, you will find little hope for cheering yet about the future.

The commission made its figures look grand by calculating the number of planes on order Aug. 17, against June 2, when it took over. That is all right for publicity purposes of the commission, but not for a full accounting of defense progress.

Using the same period as for deliveries (the date Mr. Roosevelt demanded 50,000 and the last thoroughly calculated date, Aug. 6), you will find the following situation on orders:

The army awarded contracts for 50 fighting ships, all large type bombers, and the best in the world. It addition it ordered 1,237 training ships not for use as fighters.

The navy placed orders for 1,635 planes in the same period, of which 700 are to be fighter pursuit ships. The remaining 935 are trainers.

Thus the actual number of fighters for which orders were placed is 786—a long way from the 11,000 plane program which the army alone considers essential for defense before June 1941 and still further away from the 50,000 goal of Mr. Roosevelt.

Cause of Delay

The reasons contributed officially are confusing. The commission's publicly man implies congress is to blame because it has not acted swiftly on the last $4,800,000,000 appropriations bill. This seems an inconsequential truth, because neither the army nor navy has used up all the money they previously received.

While the commission likewise points at congress for causing revision of contract forms to curtail the profits of plane manufacturers, congress is pointing at the White House for demanding an excess profits tax in connection with legislation clearing the tax amortization bottleneck, and everyone is pointing at the industry for being bewildered.

To a sideline observer, the only thing that seems quite clear is that ordinary governmental red tape has beset the program at every point. And no one has been able to control sufficient force to cut it through.

Consumer Protection

Another division of the defense commission which is having its troubles is the consumer protection unit headed by Harriet Elliott. There is not much consumer protection to be done yet, but in taking the initial steps, Miss Elliott has tread inadvertently upon some exceptionally prized toes of New Deal economists in other governmental departments. They grumble that her consumer folk assert the food and retail people have been looking the other way when cooperation is asked. Their pledge against price increases will be sought in a meeting definitely arranged for Aug. 29—in case they attend.

Tin—a War Tool

Commerce Department Feels Little Worry Over Shortage.

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—There's been a lot of talk about tin since the national defense program got under way, but if you'll believe department of commerce officials, much of the talk is honey.

There's no doubt that if the United States tin supply were cut off, there would be a fine mess.

But for that to happen, England would have to lose the war, and Japan would have to seize British Malaya and the Dutch East Indies, and blockade our trade with those settlements or refuse to sell us any tin. Furthermore, it would have to be proved that Bolivia couldn't step up its tin supply to 50,000 tons. It was almost that high in 1929 but had dropped to a little more than half that by last year. There is the possibility we could cut our consumption to get along on what we could get from Bolivia plus the small amount of tin that could be reclaimed.

Has Caused Wars
 Tin is a mighty interesting product. Wars were fought for it long before the Christian era. Julius Caesar's invasion of the British Isles may have been to get to the tin mines in Cornwall.

England has been all but controlling the tin supply ever since, although there is practically no more coming out of Cornwall. The tin ore supply (and consequently the smelting) is controlled by an international cartel composed of seven nations. But England so controls the cartel that all meetings to set quotas, prices and export duties are held in London.

The world output of tin is around 183,000 tons. The United States uses about 70,000 tons of it, 45 per cent of that for tin cans and tin linings for canned goods. The amount that goes into basic defense materials is small.

Prima Donna of Metals

There would be problems, however, even if we should quit using cans and begin to wrap our candies in paper, substitute something for tin roofings and give the kids rag dolls and wooden wagons for Christmas instead of tin soldiers and tin autos.

Tin is the prima donna of all metals. Its purity must run well over 98 per cent if it is any good, and even a tiny fractional upset in the other ingredients and the tin is worthless.

Bolivian tin is low grade and can't be used for everything. There are no smelters to speak of in the United States. Two experimental smelters recently have been opened, but their output is minute. During the World war, American smelters did reach an annual production of 16,000 tons, but the plants were abandoned years ago.

So if we couldn't import Asiatic tin, we'd have trouble—for a while. But after our own smelters were built, we'd get over the crisis.

Defense Handicap Unlikely
 The day may come when American newsmen will have to quit eating out of cans, but there is little likelihood that the tin situation will become so acute that we can't turn out bearings and bushings for defense. At least, that's what the men at the commerce department tell me.

Tomorrow Mr. Stinnett will tell how dependent we are on foreign supplies for rubber, and what's being done to meet that situation.

 HACKENSACK, N. J.—A gold snuff box, presented in 1821 by the Duke of York to Rev. John Demarest, has come to light after having been out of the family more than 40 years.

A story about an unusual snuff box, printed more than a year ago in San Diego, Calif., eventually reached the Demarest family at New Brunswick, N. J. The owner was traced to Minot, N. D., and in June the box was returned to the original 1878 Demarest home here.

"FAR FROM THE MADDING CROWD"

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Aug. 28, 1930. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bull and granddaughter Frances of South High street and William Smith returned from a two-week visit with relatives in Chicago.

Mrs. John P. Watkins and son Jack of Greeley, Colo., were visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Adams of Duluth avenue. Mrs. Watkins was a former Prospect resident.

Mrs. Ray Weston was hostess to the T. A. S. club at her home on the Holland pike.

Mrs. Earl Smith of Barborton and Mrs. Clifford Schultz of Green Camp were guests of the Cosmos club when it met with Mrs. J. H. Hite of Olney avenue.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Aug. 28, 1920. Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik war minister of Russia, who had assumed personal command on the Polish front, was massing heavy reinforcements in the region of Suwalki at the extreme northwestern tip of the battle line.

Mrs. J. T. Munsell of Delaware avenue returned from a visit with her son, J. J. Munsell of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rafferty and family of South Prospect street left for a week's outing at Russell Point.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Houghton of Saginaw, Mich., were visiting Mrs. N. F. Tilton of Windsor street.

The Gallon fire department won a silver cup awarded in the hose truck contest of fire departments of the Erie railroad. Departments from Meadville, Huntingdon and Hornell tied for second place.

The preceding night women of Marion celebrated the woman's suffrage victory with a public demonstration throughout the city after which a large delegation visited Senator and Mrs. W. G. Harding at their home on Mt. Vernon avenue. The parade was non-partisan and the procession extended more than two squares with the women marching two abreast. Pauline Foreman, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foreman, dressed to represent Uncle Sam, and accompanied by Muriel McMurray, 4-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Wilson McMurray, dressed in the suffrage color of yellow, walked at the head of the procession of women. In the lead were the Harding Men's Marching club as an escort and Baker's band. Mrs. James C. Woods, chairman of the Marion County League of Women Voters, gave a talk presenting the delegation to Senator Harding. Mr. Harding responded with an address thanking the women for the visit and in turn introduced former Senator George Sutherland of Utah, Col. Charles Warren of Detroit and Col. George Harvey of New York, editor of Harvey's Weekly, visitors at the Harding home who also gave talks.

The Era of Bad Feeling

From The New York Herald Tribune.

ALL signs indicate that we are in for another of those "Watch your manners, you cur!" periods. Many of our public men have shown signs of losing their tempers and having a fling at billingsgate. Many harsh names have been called in congress. Our political commentators appear to be getting hotter and hotter under the collar; the lie is freely passed back and forth. And in the midst of this growing choler many of our more temperate journals have delivered themselves of long and rather sensible editorials designed to soothe frayed nerves, to keep discussion upon what is known as a high plane and, in general, to preserve dignity. These pleas make good reading, but it is to be suspected that they will have little or no effect upon the "lost vocal" leaders of the various schools of thought.

We are living in the Era of Bad Feeling, and it is too much to expect all the antagonists to refrain from guttersnipe methods and harsh epithets—and we have some gifted name callers in this country, as always. Of course the main trouble lies in the difficulty in distinguishing between sharp, forthright, vigorous attack and that which is unfair, vulgar and couched in the words of a bar-room brawler.

OUR puzzled friends of the left persuasion, in particular, seem to have trouble in seeing this distinction. Thus, one of the most strident champions of "democracy" and "liberalism," in a headline over some of the news that came from Colorado Springs the other day, said that the "mud slinging" had already started. A careful reading of the news dispatch under the headline, however, failed to uncover anything which might reasonably be so described. Another "liberal" newspaper has pictured two of the more hardhitting (but thoroughly honest and usually very effective) columnists as a couple of low alley fighters. As usual it seems to depend upon whose ox has been gored—or "given the works," as the vulgarians would put it.

But the oddest part of the whole spectacle is the peculiar sensitiveness of the New Dealers and their fellow travelers of the Stalinist coloration. They are capable of attacking with every weapon in the arsenal of vindictiveness, vituperation and deceit, and then when the counter-attack comes they cry "Foul!" and call upon all right-thinking people to observe what egregious manners their opponents have. Not all the pleas of moderation, from whatever source, can drown the suspicion that we are in for a rough time—and a not too merry one.

Ethel Thinks It May
 Bill Meany To Practice
 with Stovepipes for C

By DAMON RUNY

Mr. Joe Turp Writes From Brooklyn:
 DEAR SIR: Last night my wife

Joe's cousin Amy got a letter from her fellow Bill Meany. He is from the state with the militia. He is a defendant. I see I know it sweets. I've seen enough of Bill Meany around the hood in his uniform and what of it? Ethel sees well Joe do you know v in his letter to Amy? He sees they're trying to defend us when the en with stove pipes for cannons and for tanks. I see why Ethel all the pictures in the papers showing the ice wagons and coal trucks too. Ethel sees do you mean it is certainly it is true. I see I am sure have not seen it in the paper because you are always reading the thing at the pictures. Ethel sees well paid much attention to the papers I am glad it is true. I thought Bill telling Amy some more of his lies. Joe is a terrible liar sometimes. I see is one time he is not lying.

ETHEL sees Joe let me ask you Would the enemy that Bill Meany would the enemy have those guns and other things? I see I suppose so sees well Joe I do not see what good and ice wagons would do us then.

I see well Ethel you see the idea not have enough regular stuff to among all those guys in the militia are just pretending the stove pipes are cannons and that the ice wagons are they are working with them so they how to manage the real things when along. Ethel sees do you mean they making believe like little boys who playing war around the neighborhood for guns?

I see something like that Ethel. Joe I would not have much confidence in pipe or an ice wagon either if the to come after us with bombs and guns they are doing in England. I see O how many comes after us we will be of bombs and guns ourselves. I see militia guys will know how to hit because they will have had so much with the stove pipes.

ETHEL sees do you mean if Billy Meany how to handle stove pipes got know how to handle them to defend the enemy? Joe you know Bill is not and suppose the enemy came and he some cannons to defend us and he I self and thought he was still on start. I think it would be better to start cannons right away and not get him on stove pipes.

I see O Ethel now you are just tish and she sees well Joe I know than you do. He often gets quite I see I mean about the stove pipes are only using them like scenery in Ethel sees but I still think cannons better for Bill. Besides stove pipes things to look at. I see will you forget for a minute Ethel? I see I am trying to you that they are only for lesson guys to take the place of the real th we do not have enough of the real t around. Ethel sees why is that Joe? We got enough of the real things? I now you have got me.

SEEK sees well I am going over to A to apologize to her. When she tel Bill Meany sees in his letter I tol ought to break off her engagement because she could never trust a hum told such terrible lies about stove will be glad to hear that what he truth. I see tell her to tell Bill I about him. I see tell her to tell proud of him.

Ethel sees all right Joe. Amy is him too though I am sure she will me that they ought to be careful ting Bill mixed up. He is very se up Joe. He was supposed to marry month but he got mixed up and w state to practice to defend us when comes so you can imagine what s would do to him.

Yours truly,
 Joe Turp.

Victory Predicted
McNary followed activities at noon with a speech attended by national leaders, who were predicting the Willkie ticket would be successful.

Representative John W. McNary, described Senator McNary as the "undisputed" vice president of the "perpetual" campaign to supplement Wendell Willkie.

McNary's introduction by Stassen was interrupted by wild cheering. McNary next vice president of the United States brought a speech lasting nearly a minute.

Ills Trade Program
McNary criticized the administration's reciprocal trade program and approved of the development of hydroelectric power.

McNary said that in more than seven years he has never seen a backwater, deploring the neglect of the country's spiritual and material progress.

McNary said "The great majority of America have been neglected—where not actually neglected. Some have lost faith in the future; faith in work, the source of well-being."

Conflict of Philosophies
No party is solely responsible. McNary said the minority have, perhaps, failed in vigilance. But, he said, responsibility rests upon the party in power. They have the mandate.

McNary praised many new deal reforms which have made the life of the average man more comfortable. But he attacked the administration's "capacity to govern" and the political and economic heresies which have degenerated us from our course.

"We may forgive the new deal's incompetence in dealing with economic forces, its inability, or unwillingness, to further the employment of idle capital and idle hands," he declared.

"What we cannot forgive is that the new deal, finding itself unable to restore national vitality, has turned upon the thesis that America is finished, that our economy is inevitably contracting; that opportunity has been exhausted; and that, hereafter, we must look increasingly to the government for jobs, for security and for the oversight of our private lives."

Defines "Statism"
"That concept, old as human history, germinates now from Europe which has been transformed by poverty, political instability and war—into a dismal nightmare."

"That concept is statism; the extreme of the ascendancy of the state over the individual. I deny its validity in terms of a youth, vitality, America. I charge, moreover, that the diffusion of that concept has impaired the national spirit, and, if persisted in, it will rob us in time of our freedom."

"What we need in times like these is more democracy—not less. The Philadelphia convention ended our sailing orders." McNary said.

McNary said the prosperity of agriculture would be the first charge on the attention of any administration.

FRENCH SAY BRITISH FOMENTED REBELLION

Outbreak in France's African Colony Disclosed.
By The Associated Press
VICHY, France, Aug. 28.—The French government disclosed today when it called a British-inspired rebellion in France's African empire.

The government declared that "all necessary dispositions have been taken to localize the situation."

(Gen. Charles De Gaulle, recognized by Britain as the leader of "Free Frenchmen," announced yesterday that the governor of Chad, French territory in the heart of Africa, had notified him of a decision to fight on the side of the British, rather than yield to the Vichy government.)

A communiqué said that this was not the first time that Britain had attempted to influence French colonies in Africa, referring to a British offer of protection for all parts of the French empire which sided with her after France's armistice with Germany and Italy.

The communiqué also referred to British Prime Minister Churchill's offer shortly before the armistice to make Britain and France one country, with common citizenship.

This, the communiqué said, was incompatible with French interests.

The rebellious situation arose in French East Africa, the announcement went on, when the military governor of the Chad region, Colonel De Larminat, went to British West Africa after making contact with General De Gaulle to "rebel."

It was not made clear whether the Chad "rebellion" had spread to other regions of French East Africa.

His Totalitarianism
In the far east, Japan's new premier, Prince Fumimaro Konoye, attacked the theory of totalitarianism in a surprising speech today and asserted that it was inappropriate for Japan.

"No matter what brilliant results such a system may have reaped in other lands, it is not acceptable to Japan," said Prince Konoye, who was expected when he took office last July '22 to head a totalitarian regime.

The prince, addressing a group of 28 political leaders, vehemently denied the new system would be based on a single national party, as had been generally expected.

He defined its purpose as "to unite the total energies of the state and the people and to make a living whole of our 100,000,000 countrymen, enabling them to fulfill perfectly their duty as subjects of the throne."

However, despite this definition, Prince Konoye struck sharply at the European system of totalitarianism and said "the new structure cannot be allowed to take the form of a single party system."

Prince Konoye said Japan would not have this system "no matter how brilliant its results" because "it is contrary to the basic principle of our national policy of 'one sovereign over all.'"

"Just a minute, just a minute," Tydings yelled at Taft. "I've listened to you, now you listen to me a minute."

Failed Last Time
The Maryland senator said voluntary enlistment had failed to provide needed men during the World war and would fail again if this country were involved.

Taft and Senator Donahy, Democrat of Ohio, both voted for a senate-rejected amendment to the Burke-Wadsworth bill operative only in time of war or emergency invasion.

Later Donahy joined with the majority to defeat Taft's amendment.

Marion Co. Couple Married 50 Years

MR. AND MRS. HARRY N. COOK

Four generations will be present Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Cook celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home two miles south of Heppburn.

With them will be their son, Lowell Cook of 196 North Seffner avenue, a daughter, Mrs. Ida Dil-saver of LaRue, a granddaughter, Mrs. Harold Van Houten and her 2-year-old daughter, Virginia, of Uncapher avenue. Mrs. Van Houten is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Cook.

Their children and their families will be guests at the noon dinner, together with a group of relatives and friends who were at the marriage 50 years ago. Among relatives who were present on Sept. 3, 1890 and who are still living are Mrs. Cook's sister and nephew, Mrs. Mary Kelly of Marion and Mrs. Mary Kelly of Marion, and Mr. Cook's sister and brother, Mrs. Avery Crabb and Mrs. Will Morris of Marion, Elmer Cook of Denver, Colo., and Claude Cook of Bellefontaine, O. Sunday from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Cook will keep open house for their friends.

They were married at the home of Mrs. Cook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Crabb who lived on what is now Harding Highway-W. in Marion county. Rev. Markwith was the officiating minister. Mrs. Cook before her marriage was Miss Hannah Crabb, a native of Marion county.

For many years Mr. and Mrs. Cook lived in western Marion county, before moving to their present home just across the line into Hardin county. Mr. Cook is the son of the late Nelson and Suzannah Cook.

They are the parents of four children, two of whom are living, the son in Marion and the daughter in LaRue. They also have 15 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Picks Successor
In the appointment line, the President had decided on a successor to James A. Farley as postmaster general before he left Washington yesterday for his Hudson valley estate.

He confided his choice to Farley, but Farley, who quits the cabinet Saturday for private business, kept the secret.

Confronting the President also were decisions on filling jobs left empty by the resignations of Edward J. Noble as assistant secretary of commerce, and Daniel J. Tobin as an administrative assistant to Mr. Roosevelt.

Noble handed in his commission and announced he would support Wendell L. Willkie for the presidency. Tobin also turned his resignation in and said he would take charge of the labor division of the Democratic national committee, as he did in 1932 and 1936.

Madden in Doubt
Mr. Roosevelt apparently was undecided whether to accept recommendations that he reappoint J. Warren Madden to the national labor relations board or heed some critics of the N.L.R.B. who want Madden out. Madden's appointment expired Monday.

The Chief Executive starts for Chattanooga, Tenn., Sunday. His arrival there Monday morning and an address dedicating the new Chickamauga dam will climax a celebration of the accomplishments of the Tennessee valley authority.

Mrs. Uline was born on March 11, 1865, daughter of John W. and Catherine Burtfield Malone, both natives of Marion county.

She was a member of the Baptist faith and of Canby Temple No. 152, Pythian Sisters.

The funeral will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. at the Schaffner-Denzer Co. funeral home on East Center street. Rev. Lawrence A. Wood of Trinity Baptist church will officiate. Burial will be made in Forest Glen Memorial park. Friends may call at the funeral home after 7:30 tonight.

Civilian Morale Seen as Decisive Factor in Battle
By DEWITT McKENZIE
THE TEXT
The British government today charged Nazi night raiders with "indiscriminate bombing attacks" in many parts of England. Any indiscriminate bombing of civilians would be for the purpose of causing terror and thereby shattering public mor-

THE BERNON
The outcome of the battle of Britain will depend largely to my mind on the morale of the civilian populations of the belligerents, and on the spirit of the fighting forces as they are affected, not by their own dangers but by the dangers and privations of their folk at home.

Let's take an illustration of the meaning of morale. The World war disclosed that the soldiers who collapsed through fear generally were the big, strapping chaps who were physically perfect but intellectually slow and not used to thinking for themselves. The highly strung, fast-thinking intellectual fellow came through all right, because he was able to adapt himself quickly to the crisis at hand.

We found on the fighting front, too, that soldiers from primitive races couldn't stand the terrors of modern warfare.

Depends on People
It's dangerous to draw general conclusions from isolated cases. However, it seems reasonable to believe that in the present war the civilian populations which are most used to thinking for themselves, and solving their own problems, will stand best the tortures which are sure to come.

This war is more than any other in history a test of civilian morale. The development of airpower since the World war has brought the rigors of the battle-field to inhabitants of even the most remote districts of embattled countries.

The Nazi bird-men are bombing rural regions of the British Isles which certainly not in modern times have heard a gun fired in anger, much less the terrifying detonation of monster bombs which scream like devils as they approach their victims. Berlin is smothering enemy gun-powder for the first time since Napoleon.

To this must be added the effects of blockade and counter-blockade, which ultimately may spell dire hunger and even starvation for one or more of the belligerents—for many neutrals, as far as that goes.

Affects Fighters Too
This means that all the fears and hates and mental anguish which grow out of wars are imposed on the general public—upon the non-belligerents of the populations. This is vastly important for upon the morale of these non-belligerents—the women and children and men not attached to military tasks—depends the support, both moral and material, which is given to the fighting force.

A soldier reflects the mental reactions of his family like a mirror. The old Kaiser's men finally faltered in the World war when their women-folk and babies faced starvation.

Naturally, too, much depends on the purpose of the war—upon whether the public and the fighting force have their hearts in the project. The fall of France was due in no small part to its lack of realization of the extent of the threat to the empire and the home.

Britain likely was saved a similar fate by the English channel which imposed a barrier to the onrushing Nazis. With the threat to country and freedom thrust upon them, the spirit of the population rose. They finally had a fighting slogan which set their hearts to burning.

Coming days will test the strength of morale in all the belligerent countries to the limit. The side whose civilian morale cracks first will be the loser.

Marion District Well Represented In Activities at Ohio State Fair

Larry Zehner of Dunkirk, retiring president of the Ohio Future Farmers of America, conferred the honorary state farmer degree on Governor John W. Bicker yesterday at the Ohio State fair, according to an Associated Press report from Columbus.

Governor Bicker spent most of the day at the fair showing particular interest in the junior fair buildings. He expressed the hope that additional quarters could be provided for the young people's exhibits, the report stated.

Mrs. E. P. Robinson and W. E. Knight, both of Delaware, were among those who yesterday joined the 50-year club, composed of men and women who have been attending the Ohio State exposition for a half century or longer.

Among veteran harness men on hand for the week's racing program is Wayne Smart of Delaware. Mr. Smart has seven horses at the fair, headed by Milestone who finished sixth and fifth in the Hambletonian. He has won five out of seven starts this year.

Robert Richardson of Ridgeway placed first and second with his two purebred Hampshire gilts in the junior fair judging. His pen of three market hogs won a fourth and fifth single and a third prize as a pen of three.

Other honors won by Hardin county young people at the fair include the following: Paul Kraft of Dola, third in crossbred heavy market hogs, second with pen of light market hogs, fourth and fifth in heavy single barrows and third fourth and fifth with light single barrows; Clayton Arm of Dunkirk, grand champion pen of heavy market hogs; Clyde Arm of Dunkirk, second in heavy market division; Joe Dulin of Kenton, fourth and sixth in fat steer division; Robert Kahler of Dola, fourth in wheat; Louis Latham of Forest, first with flower box; Kenneth Sanford of Forest, first with poultry water stand; William Tracy of Forest, first with poultry feeder; Lawrence Hengendorfer of Forest, second on lawn chair; John Ruoh of Forest, second on tool carrier; Clair McVitty of Forest, second on sack holder; Earl Wright of Forest, second on single tree; Lee Snyder of Forest, third on bench hoop; Paul Ruop of Forest, fourth on saw horse.

SOLDIERS HEAD HOME AS WAR GAMES END
Highways, Railroads Jammed As Exodus Begins.
By The Associated Press
CAMP MCCOY, Wis., Aug. 28.—The homeward exodus of 60,000 regular and national guard soldiers from the Second Army maneuvers today jammed highways and railroads in this area.

Nearly 100 truck convoys and 78 railroad trains are being used in moving the troops from Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky and Wisconsin. Units having the farthest to go departed first.

Troop A 22nd Reconnaissance Squadron of Cleveland scheduled its departure for noon via truck transports. At 6 p. m. part of the 150th West Virginia Infantry leave on the first train out of the area.

Continuous streams of trucks will leave the maneuver area until Saturday morning. After the three-week training period the guardsmen will return to home stations to remain at their number until the official end of their tour of duty.

SWIMMING CLASSES AT Y EXTENDED 2 MORE WEEKS
162 Registered In Training Program for Young Girls.
The young girls "learn to swim" classes held twice a week at the Y.M.C.A. have been extended another two weeks, Y officials reported today.

Thirty-five of the 162 girls registered have learned to swim in the eight lessons given thus far under the tutelage of Dick Brandt, Y physical director and former varsity member of the Wittenberg college swimming team.

Since the first lesson, Aug. 1, there has been a total of 618 girls in the Y pool. As high as 97 pupils have been in the water in one day and as many as 102 in one week.

Because the classes have proved so extremely popular and beneficial, they will probably be made an annual affair, officials said. The lessons are given free to girls between the ages of 9 to 16.

MARION COUPLE MARRIED FOR 50 YEARS CELEBRATE
Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Norris of 673 Bennett street called at their home yesterday afternoon and last evening in honor of their golden wedding anniversary. More than 30 guests were received in the afternoon and in the evening the celebrants received 50 or more of their friends. Throughout the day they received cards, gifts, flowers and other congratulatory messages. Gifts included two large anniversary cakes, one a three-tiered cake, and the other bore the names of their seven grandchildren.

Joining them for the occasion were their sons, Francis W. Norris of 407 Oak street, Arthur B. Norris of 232 Silver street, and Richard F. Norris Jr. of 430 Summit street, and their families and their son-in-law Phillip Gorenflo of Marion.

Assisting throughout the day were Mrs. Arthur Norris and Mrs. Richard Norris. Joan Abraham sang a group of numbers in keeping with the anniversary. Mrs. John McNamara of Shelby was an out-of-town guest.

MISS SUSAN HABERMAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Haberman of 445 Delaware avenue, became the bride of Harry O. Crawbough Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Crawbough of 1047 East Center street, in a ceremony read at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon in Emanuel Lutheran church. The pastor, Rev. M. E. Hollensen, read the service in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends of the bride and bridegroom. Miss Mary Ann Young was the bride's only attendant, and Brigg Young of Lancaster served as Mr. Crawbough's best man.

For the ceremony the bride chose a plaid costume suit with khaki green accessories and she wore an orchid.

Fall flowers in the altar vases were the only decorations in the church. Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for Chicago.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Harding High school. Mr. Crawbough attended Capital university and is associated with his father in the hardware business.

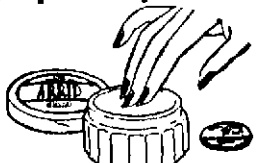

A GROUP of friends surprised Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Knickle of Blaine avenue with a potluck supper last evening as a farewell before their departure next week for Springfield where they will make their home. The evening was spent socially and Mr. and Mrs. Knickle were presented a gift. Mr. Knickle, manager of the Postal Telegraph office here has been transferred to the management of the Springfield office.

The birthday anniversary of Mrs. Edna Swindler was the occasion of a meeting of the Wimpodans club last evening at the home of Mrs. W. H. Hanley on Summit street. Three new members were welcomed and plans were made for a steak roast at Community park at Prospect Sept. 25. Miss Maxine Jones of Delaware was a guest. Mrs. Swindler was presented gifts and in cards the awards were won by Mrs. Adeline Henzle and Mrs. Bertha McDowell. Miss Jones was presented a guest award.

WAYNE KING BAND TO PLAY AT CEDAR POINT

Wayne King and his band will play at the Cedar Point ballroom from Friday night of this week through Labor day, the management announced today. The engagement is the result of a "most popular band in 1939" poll which started at the resort with the opening of the current season. King's band received the greatest number of votes. It will be brought back to play the Labor day week-end engagement which will close one of the most successful seasons in the resort's history. There will be six dancing sessions over the Labor day week-end, one each night and added tea dances on Sunday and Monday afternoons.

Farewell Party Given in Honor of Mrs. H. R. Stauffer

A surprise farewell party at the home of Mrs. Walter S. Guthrie of 292 East Center street yesterday afternoon honored Mrs. Henry R. Stauffer, who with Mr. Stauffer and their family will leave soon to make their home in Ashland.

Mr. Stauffer, former clerk of the municipal court, will be associated with the office of the Garrett Lumber Co. at Ashland. Mrs. Stauffer is serving her third year as secretary of Circle No. 6 of the Ladies Aid society of the First Presbyterian church, and the party was arranged by the circle members.

The group met for a 1 o'clock potluck luncheon served at small tables throughout the rooms. Mrs. Stauffer was presented a gaily colored parasol filled with handwritten cards as a farewell gift. Entertainment included contests planned by Mrs. J. H. Andrews and Mrs. L. E. Cook. Awards were won by Mrs. Stauffer, Mrs. Aaron Goetting, Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. L. E. Oberlander.

Present with the honor guest were Mrs. Lewis Uhl, Mrs. S. B. Cunningham, Mrs. E. W. Warwick, Mrs. E. H. Cowan, Mrs. R. H. Haberman, Mrs. Arthur McCausland, Mrs. H. S. Fair, Mrs. Everett Bonecutter, Mrs. Oberlander, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. John Guthrie and son, Dan, and Richard Stauffer.

The marriage of Miss Maxine Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Scott of Kirkpatrick, W. Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Primm of 538 Avondale avenue, took place Sunday noon at Galion. The ceremony was read by Rev. James Leonard, uncle of the bride. The attendants were Miss Virginia Hoover and Earl Grimes of Marion.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. The table was centered with a large wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Later the couple left for Huntington where Mr. Primm is employed as a machinist.

The bride was graduated from Harding High school in 1939 and attended the Marion Business college. Mr. Primm was graduated from Harding High school in 1935.

The marriage of Miss Velma Bailey, daughter of Calvin Bailey of 210 Lender street, and George Klous, son of Mr. Klous of Columbus, which took place Saturday, Aug. 10, at Greenup, Ky., is being announced today. They are living in Columbus where Mr. Klous is employed in the trucking business.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Huebner of 914 Garfield avenue are announcing the marriage of their son, Milton, and Miss Zelma Carpenter, daughter of Alva Carpenter of Batesville, O. The ceremony took place Aug. 22 at Caldwell, Noble county. They are making their home for the present with the bridegroom's parents. Mr. Huebner is employed with the American Malleable Castings Co.

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Marjorie Axthelm, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Axthelm, of 348 Oak street, to Milton Schieferstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schieferstein of Amherst. The ceremony took place at 6 o'clock Sunday evening at the parsonage of St. Peter's Evangelical church with Rev. Schmidt reading the ceremony. A wedding dinner for the bride and bridegroom and immediate families at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Schieferstein followed the ceremony, and later there was a reception.

For her wedding Miss Axthelm chose a redingote costume in black green wool and her accessories were in black and green. Her jewelry was a gold heart-shaped locket a gift of the bridegroom, and her flowers were a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

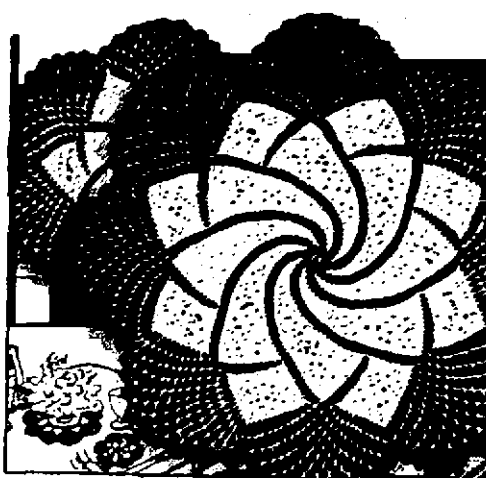

Mrs. Albert Long Jr. of Lorain has her only attendant. She wore a redingote costume of wine silk with accessories in black and wine and a corsage of tea roses. Mr. Long served Mr. Schieferstein as best man.

The bride's mother wore a black dress with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore navy blue with white accessories. Both wore shoulder corsages of roses.

Upon their return from a wedding trip the couple will make their home in the Roush apartment on Cleveland avenue in Amherst. Mr. Schieferstein was graduated from the Amherst High school in 1935 and is employed at the Dave Mowery Service station in Lorain.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Call Cuts In on Verizen's Wife and She Heeds a Starling Demand.

"BUT I agree with you," Lillian went on, "that it wouldn't be nice for her to learn of this secret fever scare this way. You'd have a sweet tantrum on your hands. All right! Me, I fly. I'll camp up in the hall, and have some nice yarn all spun to give her if she sticks her darling old nose out of the nursery door."

She waved her hand in an airy little adieu, and Katherine spoke quickly as she hurried away.

"What do you think of my notifying Miss Whitlock that your study is ready for her and Edith?" she asked.

"Why? of course, just as you think," I answered.

"I'll tell her," Katherine said, "that if she needs any help in getting her down here, I can furnish it, although Allah, he knows there are dozens of other jobs I'd rather tackle."

All her dislike of Edith was in her voice, a dislike, I knew, that she cherished only because of what she considered Edith's scheming against her. But I knew why she was volunteering to go down and help Miss Whitlock. She wished to save me the possible embarrassment of a listener to my conversation with Philip Verizen, and I smiled gratefully at her.

"You're a most comprehending soul," I told her.

"Thank you," she said, and then she put a compelling hand upon my arm, and drew me back into the solitude of the library.

It was an isolation I had planned, for upon Katie's delivery of the telephone message, I had dispatched her to the kitchen with an injunction to hurry dinner. There was no need for haste with the meal, but, mindful of her patient desire to linger in the hall while I talked over the telephone, I had wanted a plausible excuse for banishing her.

"You'll have hours to arrange that Lansfield thing," Katherine said, "but we won't have many chances to talk together alone after this. I heard your question to Bill about Hank, and following words that he was all right. But I'd like to hear just what Bill said."

I knew why she asked the question.

Couple Wed In Morrow Co. To Mark Anniversary

Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Furstenberger, of near Cambridge in Morrow county, will celebrate their fortieth wedding anniversary Sunday at the United Brethren church in New Hope, Preble county. The church, of which Rev. Furstenberger is pastor, is the second oldest of the denomination in Ohio.

Rev. Walter N. Roberts, president of Bonebrake seminary at Dayton, will be the speaker at 10:30 a. m. A basket dinner at noon at the church will be followed by open house from 2 to 10 p. m. at the parsonage. All of the day's program will be open to their friends.

Rev. Furstenberger and his wife, the former Cora B. Herbert, a cousin of Lt. Gov. Paul Herbert, were married on Sept. 2, 1900 in the United Brethren church at Olive Branch in Morrow county. Mrs. Furstenberger's parents were the late Benjamin and Ida Herbert. Rev. Furstenberger, now 87, is living in Tampa, Fla.

Rev. Furstenberger is now in his fortieth year in the ministry, 25 of which were in the Friends church and the last 15 in the U. B. church. His ministry has covered about 17 appointments, including 24 pulpits. He served the Friends churches at Rockford, St. Marys and Spencerville and United Brethren churches in Xenia, Wash. Ind., Carthage, Ind., and Willey Memorial church in Cincinnati.

Elias Furstenberger of Girard avenue is an uncle of Rev.

NEW COURSES BEGUN AT O. W. U. BECAUSE OF WAR

Interest Shown in Germany, Spain, Latin America.
DELAWARE, O., Aug. 28.—Dean Harold J. Sheridan has announced last-minute adjustments in the Ohio Wesleyan university curriculum to provide for "more up-to-the-minute" courses.

Because of increased interest in Latin America, a new course is being planned by Prof. O. K. Borling which will cover the last 100 years of Spanish literature in translation. At least half of the emphasis will be upon recent South American culture.

A second new course will be in the field of German. Due to recent changes making it necessary for those preparing for teaching in elementary grades to have four years of training, a new department will be added to cover this field. The fourth change will make possible a course coordinating written and oral English.

Rain Abbreviates Big League Show

Yanks and Cardinals Win To Gain Ground on Pacesetters.

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, Aug. 28.—Brooklyn's in town again, so what? The situation is a little different from the last time. Nobody's even calling it a crucial series, although the Dodgers seem to be the only thing between the Cincinnati Reds and their second straight National league pennant.

Rhinoeaters Calm
Some how Cincinnati fans have taken the Reds' 1940 progress with incredible calm. This time last year otherwise industrious adults were disputing with their children over such items as whether Ernie Lombardi hit a spinner or a high, hard one for his latest home run. Tots in danger of dunking first grade arithmetic could tell you offhand how many balls and strikes Paul Derringer threw in that game week before last.

It may be complacency. Maybe the fans are right—that the Reds are in and the real of the season is a formality necessary to bring in sufficient revenues to meet the payroll.

Whatever it is, nobody's steamed up over Brooklyn coming to town even though the team arrived by airplane.

Cubs Split Giants
Yesterday the Chicago Cubs went out and knocked off the New York Giants, 3-1, behind the seven-hit hurling of workhorse Claude Passeau in one of three major league games that got by old man weather.

This decision, coupled with the St. Louis Cardinals' 4-3 victory over the Boston Bees, stood up the National league standings. The Cubs went into a tie with Pittsburgh for fifth place, the Giants dropped to fourth and the red-hot Cars went into third.

Marlin Marion's first major league homer proved the winning run for the Cards over Jim Tobin. Bob Brown had a shutout until the eighth, when the Bees scored all their runs and Clyde Shoun came in to put out the fire.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—Bobby Feller begins to look like the hub of manager Oscar Vitti's new double-duty pitching plan to put the pennant in the Indians' hands.

The young speedballer will take the mound tonight after only a day's rest from a relief hurling stint as the Tribe opens a two-game series with the Athletics.

Vitti's New Plan
Feller finished for the Indians Monday as they snapped a four-game losing streak with a 4 to 3 victory over Washington. Vitti later disclosed he sent his ace to replace Mel Harder under a new plan whereby the club's five top pitchers would be used in both starting and relief roles during the stretch drive.

Opposing Johnny Babich, Feller will be after his 23rd victory. Rain yesterday washed out the rubber game of the Washington series. The game will be made up in a double header at Cleveland Sept. 18.

Pitcher's Schedule
Al Smith will hurl the opener of a three-game series at Chicago Friday night. Al Milnar is slated to start the final game at Philadelphia tomorrow, winding up Cleveland's last eastern tour of the season.

The only American league tussle yesterday saw the New York Yankees nip the White Sox 5-4 on a tenth inning run sent home by Babe (hitting average .263) Dahlgren's single. The victory boosted the Yanks to 2½ games for second-place Detroit and 5½ from the Cleveland Indians.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—It will cost the National football league more than a million dollars to operate next season. Attention, Henry Armstrong: The N. F. The Yanks say old Ted Lyons didn't make one false move in shutting them out last Sunday.

Next Monday morning at 9:30 Marion Harding gridgers will begin a three-week training grind in preparation for their eight-game football schedule which opens here Sept. 20 with Tiffin Columbian. Head Coach Bill Williams announced today.

Williams, who returns to his post after having secured the Presidents to the North Central Ohio conference title, outlined his program of preparedness in defense of the crown. Candidates for the squad will get their equipment and undergo physical examinations this week.

They will tee off early Monday, in spite of the fact that it's a holiday, and continue daily sessions right up to the threshold of the 1940 season. Their only respite from grid labors will be observance of the Sabbath.

Practice Twice Daily
Practice will come two-a-day all next week. The program will be reduced to six sessions with the opening of school Sept. 9. More than 50 seniors, juniors and sophomores, including a splendid string of lettermen, are expected to be in the harness plugging for berths on the varsity club.

Williams has requested that all candidates report at Harding High school Thursday at 7:45 p. m. to arrange for physical exams. Seniors and juniors will be asked to be on hand at the stadium Friday to receive headgear and uniforms. Sophomores will get their equipment Saturday morning.

A pre-season scrimmage has been scheduled with Fostoria Sept. 7, after the Prexies but five days' training under their belts. Fostoria will come here for a workout at 10 a. m. The major purpose being to give the mentors a chance to observe how their newcomers behave under fire.

Harding's club will be minus a host of backfield veterans. The line, however, will be composed almost entirely of experienced material. Voicing the opinion that the conference teams will be tougher, Williams nonetheless has been optimistic and predicts that Marion will toss a "good" club into the title fight.

Open NCO Oct. 4
The Presidents will have but two tests before facing the first league foe. Opening here with Tiffin Columbian the locals then will visit Piqua and return Oct. 4 for the NCO inaugural with Ashland. All of Harding's eight games are scheduled as Friday night contests and five of them will be on the home lot.

Williams will be assisted again this season by George Niemi, line coach, and Howard Huffman, junior varsity mentor. A six to seven-game schedule is being considered for the jayvees. Junior high school competition, the Foundation of Harding's recent successes, will be operated on the same program as last year. Central, Vernon Heights and Thomas A. Edison elevens will play their usual round-robin schedule.

Commission Ruling Gives Shovel Title in Softball Loop

Disputed Game Decision Puts Diggers in Top Spot and Series.

Action taken last night by the Marion softball commission upholding an umpire's decision in a protested game gives the Marion Steam Shovel entry a clear claim to the Commercial league championship and with it the right to enter next month's "little world series."

The dispute arose in a Shovel-Community Center game. One of the Shovel players stole home when the backstop of the opposing team left his position to retrieve his mask which had fallen on the previous play. The umpire ruled that the runner scored or not in his box.

The run proved the margin of victory for the Diggers. As a result the Shovel rounded out the schedule with 12 victories in 13 starts, while Community Center finished a game and one-half behind with 11 wins and three losses. Had the protest been allowed the clubs would have been deadlocked for the title.

Last night's Industrial league contest matching Schiairet Transfer and Young Democrats was postponed because of rain. Tonight's schedule will pit Coca Cola and Post Office teams in an Oldtimer's circuit game.

The Sunday School No. 1 loop-offshoot from Epworth and Oakland Evangelical, booked as a benefit at Lincoln park tonight, has been postponed until next Tuesday. Proceeds will go to the fund for the purchase and erection of a fence at Lincoln park diamond.

Ohioans Draw Battle As All-State Series L

Buckeyes Are Split Geographically in All Cleveland and Cincinnati.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 28.—Ohio's baseball fans, split geographically in their allegiance to the Cleveland Indians and the Cincinnati Reds, are girded for battle. But the attacks and counter-attacks won't reach full force until the two Ohio teams clinch world series places.

The line of demarcation seems to run just north of this capital city. Columbus itself is about two in one for Cincinnati.

The Reds have the "solid south" behind them and there's nary a fan in the northern counties who wouldn't stake his dollars on the Indians. Aside from Detroit support in the Toledo area and Pittsburgh followers in the East Liverpool-Steubenville zone, Buckeye fans are committed solidly to one or the other of their "home" teams.

They've waited a these Cleveland fans, for the first All series. The closest thing test happened back the two clubs played son series. Rube Br Cincinnati player, re won the sel, beating Bagby in one of his
